3rd Grade News

End of Year Celebration

I would really like to have a fun End of Year Celebration for the kiddos. They have worked so hard, and deserve some good old fun. I am wondering if a parent or two is willing to take charge of this extravaganza and plan a wonderful time for our amazing class. I would like to do the celebration Wednesday 5-22 from 1:30 – 2:30. I know so many parents are also busy during this time of year as well. If anyone is able or interested please email me and let me know by Thursday 5-9 as time is running short. If I get a few inquiries, then I will put those parents in touch with each other. This is typically a very busy time of year for teachers, and this year, for me as well with my son's various graduation activities and responsibilities. My plan currently, with me heading it, is to do a low key celebration and have the kiddos bring in some snacks, which will also be great fun. Thank you so much for your consideration.

Schoolhouse Rock

We had a great trip last Wednesday. The play did not disappoint, and they had a very nice question and answer session afterwards. Thanks to Mrs. Hawkins and Mrs. Garcia for joining us on our adventure.

May Book Project

Our class did an amazing job raising money for the PTA Fun Run, and because of that the school will be able to purchase Chrome Carts. One of our earned class incentives is that there will be no May Book Project! ☺

What We're Learning

Reading:

Story: George's Marvelous Medicine (Two Bad Ants)

Genre: fiction (animal fantasy)

Comprehension Strategy: Plot and Theme, Story Structure

Math: Double Digit Multiplication and Decimals

Writing: Conventions, Commas, Prefixes –un -dis, Suffixes -ful, and Endings

Science – We are working our way through our sound and light learning.

Students really need to be practicing their multiplication and divisions facts. So much of what we do involves these facts. The more confident they are with them, the better they will feel when doing multistep problems. IXL is a great tool for them to practice their facts nightly.
