Immigrants settled where they could find jobs.

Many found work in factories, railroads, shipyards, and mines.

Most settled in NYC, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Chicago.

Often they settled in neighborhoods with similar ethnic history: “Little Italy”, “Chinatown”.
Becoming “American”

• “Melting Pot”: America is often described as a place where cultures blend.

• “Assimilation”: The process of blending into society.
  – Most Immigrants were eager to “assimilate”, by learning English.
Restrictions on Immigration

- Chinese Exclusion Act: In 1882, Congress passed a ban on Chinese Immigration for 10 years.

- Nativist: a native-born American who wanted to eliminate foreign influence.

- Prejudice: a negative opinion not based on facts

- Fear: for job security and prejudice led to an upsurge in “nativist” thinking.
